

Family Therapy Problems

1. Inability to resolve conflicts, make decisions, or solve problems.
2. Chaotic organization and lack of agreed-upon responsibilities.
3. Too rigid an organization resulting in an inability to respond to changing circumstances and stress.
4. Over closeness to the point that individual family members may lose any sense of individuality.
5. Lack of emotional ties and communication among family members.
6. Failure of the parents to agree on child-rearing practices.